Innovators Information Repository (IIR)
Take advantage of the DoD’s new, one-stop resource on small business vendors

Search IIR’s collection of over 54K DoD Small Business Innovation Research (SBIR) and Small Business Technology Transfer (STTR) Program contract awards.

Use IIR to
- Research past contract awards and DoD-funded resources to find technologies that match current program needs
- Identify small business vendors with demonstrated capabilities (by year contract was awarded, dollar amount, state or congressional district, program phase, and company contact information)
- Analyze and compare alternatives to eliminate duplication of efforts, save costs, and facilitate the rapid transition of innovative technologies into DoD systems

The Innovators Information Repository (IIR) is an online collection of information related to technological innovations made by small, independent United States businesses.

Small business vendors’ information includes a description of the technology, related application(s), and the capabilities of the business, as well as whether the business has previously worked with the Department of Defense (DoD) and if the technology was incorporated into a program of record.

DoD organizations are encouraged to use IIR for market research prior to initiating an RFP or RFI to determine if a technology already exists and how mature the technology is.
